We Were Right!

The booksellers are interested in the title of a good novel! Here is the stack of suggestions (1869 in all) for a title for the novel by Arthur Hodges which we are publishing September 16—note the date—which reached us up to noon of July 22—all from booksellers and their sales-people—in answer to our offer to the trade to choose a title for this book.

Doesn't that prove that the trade is interested? It does. But the book deserves this interest. It is just what a novel should be. Only once in a long time is American literature enriched with so fine a book. Charm, tenderness, whimsical humor, human nature acting and reacting naturally, spontaneously—these are some of the qualities that arouse the reader's enthusiasm.

The jury is now working on the selection of the title from all those submitted. We shall announce the title selected, and also the name of the person who suggested it, September first.

In the meantime—this is first call to place your orders! The book will be published September 16. 12mo. Cloth. With three striking illustrations by Frederick R. Gruger. Net $1.40.

Let your jobber or let us have your order now to insure a stock of books on publication date. WE BELIEVE THAT THIS NOVEL BY ARTHUR HODGES WILL BE THE BIG SELLER THIS FALL.

Postcards with your imprint—tell us how many you want. Also, our new catalogue is just off the press. A postcard will bring it to you.

IMPORTANT NEW STOKES NOVELS

The Nest-BUILDER

By BEATRICE FORBES-ROBERTSON HALE

Author of "What Women Want"

The story of a love-match in which comes conflict between the artistic temperament and the home-making instinct. Can a steadfast, home-loving woman and a brilliant, dynamic man find happiness together? If not, which will win out in the resultant clash of wills and temperament

Frontispiece and picture jacket in brown and gold. Cloth, 12mo, net $1.35.

Ready Sept. 1st.

The Six-Pointed Cross in the Dust

By JOHN ROLAND

Author of "The Good Shepherd"

The hero of this unconventional book is a modern knight-errant who tries to help, as his companion says, "Not goody-goody, pious people; they don't need help. But fellows who are down on their luck through their own fault, and who can't get up again by themselves."

Frontispiece and picture jacket in brown and gold. Cloth, 12mo, net $1.30.

Ready Sept. 8th.

The Guiding Thread

By BEATRICE HARRADEN

Author of "Out of the Wreck I Rise"

This novel is more popular in nature than any work by Miss Harraden since "Ships That Pass in the Night." A great scholar has married a beautiful country girl and so trained and dominated her mind that she is almost a second brain to him. She revolts, and surprising adventures and dramatic situations enter into her life before she realizes what freedom means.

Frontispiece and picture jacket in brown and gold. Cloth, 12mo, net $1.35.

Ready Sept. 8th.

Witte Arrives

By ELIAS TOBENKIN

A sympathetic picture of the immigrant and Jewish family life. Professor William Lyon Phelps of Yale compares "Witte Arrives" with Mary Antin's brilliant book "The Promised Land" and says: "We Americans ought to be heartily grateful for both books."

Frontispiece and picture jacket in brown and gold. Cloth, 12mo, net $1.25.

Ready August 25th.

The Impossible Mrs. Bellew

By DAVID LISLE

The ceaseless whirl of Monte Carlo is the setting of this novel. Is a woman, having once strayed, right to accept the love of a good man and her chance for happiness or must her past and the world's judgment keep her down forever? "The Impossible Mrs. Bellew" answers this question as the story is brought to a surprising and dramatic climax.

Cloth, 12mo, with frontispiece and colored jacket. Net $1.30. Ready Sept. 8th.

Mr. Wildridge of the Bank

By LYNN DOYLE

You will welcome this new humorous novelist. A smile, a laugh in spots, a tingle of funny memory:—here is his Irish novel. It is the true thing. Portnamuck, the scene of the action, is the actual, growing Ireland that few people know as it is.

Cloth, 12mo. Net $1.30. Ready Sept. 15th.

Johnstone of the Border

By HAROLD BINDLOSS

Author of "The Coast of Adventure"

One of Bindloss' most exciting works. A truly modern novel, every page of which thrills with the joy of life and action. Mysterious lights and strange comings and goings along the wild coast of the North Sea, ships sunk and submarines in hiding give the hero an unexpected task of daring. Bindloss is at his best in this new vein.

With frontispiece in color. Cloth, 12mo. Net $1.35. Ready Sept. 1st.

THE LITTLE HUNCHBACK ZIA

By FRANCES HODGSON BURNETT

Ready
August 25th
Cloth, 12mo, net 75c

Illustrated by S. B.
Nichols and W. T.
Benda. Jacket
in color.

No man or woman can read without deep emotion this exquisitely written story of the birth of the Christ-child and the restoration of the little hunchback Zia to his birthright. All the rapture, all the glory of the nativity are here expressed—as far as words can express the holiness, the sanctity of the event.

Mrs. Burnett's great following will be delighted by it. The book is a worthy addition to any library. It makes a gift of rare distinction. Suitable to all who sympathize with the joy and sorrow of the lowly.

The illustrations by Spencer B. Nichols and W. T. Benda are unusually remarkable.

Episodes of a Quaint Countryside

A New Novel by John M. Sooy

Decorative Jacket. Frontispiece in Halftone. $1.35 net

Every chapter of this work appeals to your sense of humor or vindication — strongly. The press unreservedly speak of it as an unusual book. The writer's diction is forceful, and its subject matter is often expressed with that exquisite charm which is in itself a delight.

What is said by "Old Penn," the official weekly of the U. of Pa., one of the most conservative journals in its critical reviews:

"Episodes of a Quaint Countryside," by John M. Sooy. The Wendell Sooy Publishing Company, Philadelphia.

This strikingly original and interesting book is a work of unusual merit. The scene is laid in a quaint village on the Atlantic seaboard, and its fisher and farm folk, together with the brigandage of a band of daring wreckers infesting the neighboring beaches in the early forties, furnish a large share of its subject matter. Although there are numerous occasions for a good laugh in the recital of the incidental happenings, the book is not without its serious side. The writer is a retired physician having that matured experience and culture which needs must give an assurance of a certain standard. Besides this there is present that indescribable something—that asset, if we may so express it, that creates and maintains throughout a pleasurable interest—a quality which the successful novel cannot afford to be without.

WHY A BOOK-STORE LOSES TRADE

WHY does a book-store lose trade? Not "lose trade" in the sense that its customer's cease entirely to buy books, though book-stores do lose trade every year in just this way, but in the sense of losing customers to other book-stores, to department stores, to any one of the other agencies that, in these days of flux, are selling books.

A writer in a recent issue of System analyzes the results of an investigation which he had made as to why stores lose trade. Here is his summing up of reasons: Indifference of salespeople 24%, Attempts to substitute 12%, Errors 9%, Tricky Methods 9%, Slow Deliveries 8%, Over Insistence of Salespeople 8%, Insolence of Employees 7%, Unnecessary Delays in Service 6%, Tactless Business Policies 5%, Bad Arrangement of Store 4%, Ignorance of Salespeople Concerning Goods 3%, Refusal to Exchange Purchases 2%, Poor Quality of Goods 1%.

It should be pointed out that this was an investigation of men customers and of general retail stores. Book-stores would show up very differently in the relative division of specific causes for complaints, yet we imagine that the final summing of System applies just as justly to the book-trade: "Therein lies the kernel of the problem of handling the trade of the average man—service. Of the 194 reasons given by him for withdrawing his trade, 55 are attributable to faulty methods, and 139—71.6%—to incompetent service."

From some sorts of incompetent service the book-trade, owing to the generally higher grade of help employed, is comparatively immune. The bookseller may have to combat ignorance on the part of some of his sales force—indeed that is probably the overwhelming most important defect of the book-store service to-day; but he does not have to reprove insolence to customers or, generally speaking, to energize indifference. Substitution, except of differing editions perhaps, is rarely possible in the book-store; if a customer wants Kipling's Poems, Wordsworth's will hardly satisfy him! But the fundamental defect underlying substitution, viz., Inadequate Stock, is probably the greatest problem, next to insufficiently trained employees, which the bookseller has to face. It is impossible for any book-store to keep in stock a tithe of the books in print; every day it must, perforce, make special order to meet some customer's demand. But not to have that customer's book immediately at hand is a distinct disappointment to him, no matter with how little or much justice he may blame the bookseller therefor. No one thing perhaps drives more customers from little book-shops to big ones than the greater stocks the larger shops can carry, and only more intimate and careful personal service from the smaller shop can counteract this strong tendency.

Tricky Methods, we are glad to believe, seldom form part of the customer's indictment of his bookseller; while Refusal to Exchange Purchases can likewise seldom be charged to the bookseller for the simple reason that his wares are obviously not the sort that suffer exchange "with impunity." As to how far Over Insistence to Make Sales drives away the bookseller's custom it is more difficult to say. Book buyers are notoriously browsers: it takes discrimination to detect the man who wants only to be left alone; and the bookseller, more than any other retailer, has to steer a nice course between the Scylla of obtrusive assistance on the one hand and the Charybdis of indifference on the other.

There remains Bad Arrangement of Store as a factor drawing or repulsing trade, and an important factor it is too. Standards there are as yet none, however, and just what makes one book-store more attractive—attractive in a literal sense—than another it is sometimes difficult to say. Some years ago* we had occasion to say something editorially about the temperature, psychological not physical, of stores. There are stores, splendid in their appointments and immaculate in their care, which seem from their chilly perfection to repel trade. There are other stores, dear to your true book-lover, whose bookish pseudo-disorder is an invitation to browse—and to buy. Book-stores ought not to be too orderly. Fortunate the bookseller who has mastered the happy art of making his store truly "inviting."

THE passing of John Henry Cook, for many years the head of G. W. Dillingham & Company, breaks another link with the older generation of publishers. His early life had been a varied and adventurous one. It took him some years to find the niche he was eventually to fill, but in the fifty years during which he was directly or indirectly connected with the book business he won the genuine respect and affection of the trade.

EXPRESS COMPANIES' LIABILITY FOR SHIPMENTS DEFINED ANEW

THE Appellate Term of the Supreme Court of New York State has just handed down two decisions, written by Justice Bijur, dealing with express company receipts. In brief, they decide that the burden of declaring a higher valuation than $50 at the time of shipment is entirely on the shipper. In the case of the suit of Belle Lichterman against the Adams Express Company, the court holds that the receipt is binding on the shipper, despite the fact that it was not read. The other case, namely, the suit of William H. Granberry against the American Express Company, the court holds that the carrier's liability is limited to $50 in the event the shipper has failed to declare a higher value. The court accordingly reduced the judgment obtained in the lower court from $360 to $50.

Granberry delivered to the American Express Company a package to be transported to another point in New York City. The package was lost. It was conceded that at time of delivery to the carrier no valuation of the shipment was declared by the shipper or requested by the carrier:

"The only question involved is in regard to the limitation of defendant's liability to the amount of $50," says Judge Bijur in his opinion. "As a matter of practical interest, it appears that the forms of receipt formerly used by the defendant prior to the Cummins amendment to the Interstate Commerce law has recently been changed, probably to conform to the requirements of the Cummins amendment, approved March 4, 1915, so that the same receipt may be used for interstate and intrastate shipments interchangeably. The present form of receipt contains no express limitation upon the carrier's liability. A note on its face refers to a requirement that the value of the article shipped must be declared under certain circumstances, but there is no provision indicating that the carrier's liability shall be varied according to the value of the contents. On the face of the receipt, however, it is recited that the article is received subject to the classifications and tariffs in effect on the date hereof.

"Whatever doubt may have been heretofore entertained regarding the binding character of these tariffs when duly filed as constructive notice to the carrier has been removed as to interstate shipment by Boston & Maine R. R. v. Hooker (238 U. S., 97; Barstow v. N. Y., N. H. & H. R. R. (158 A. D., 665), and as to intrastate shipments, referring to tariffs filed with the Public Service Commission in this State, Gardiner v. N. Y. C. & H. R. R. R. (201 N. Y., 387), Lewis v. N. Y., O. & W. R. R.

(210 N. Y., 429, 432). The appropriate tariff duly filed by the defendant provides:

"Rule 13. Valuation Charges:

"(a) The rates governed by this classification are based upon a value of not exceeding $50 on each shipment of 100 pounds or less, and not exceeding 50 cents per pound, actual weight, on each shipment weighing more than 100 pounds, and the liability of the express company is limited to the value above stated unless a greater value is declared at time of shipment, and the declared value in excess of the value specified is paid for, or agreed to be paid for, under the schedules of charges for excess value."

"I think that both by way of contract (Belger v. Dinsmore, 51 N. Y., 156; see also cases cited in Lichterman case, supra), and by reason of the binding character of the tariff itself, the plaintiff was bound by, and the defendant entitled to the benefit of, the limitation of its liability to $50 dependent upon the valuation or rather absence of valuation by the shipper of the package. It is conceded that such limitation coincident with a fixing of rates dependent upon the value of the goods shipped, placed at the option of the shipper, is a valid regulation (Hart v. Penn. R. R., 112 U. S., 331).

"The only question that has occurred to me has been whether the provision of defendant's tariff is to be construed as awarding to it an option to inquire as to the value of the package and to fix its rate and liability accordingly, and importing a waiver if no such inquiry is made (Meister v. Woolverton, 140 A. D., 926, approved in Robinson v. N. Y. C. & H. R. R. R., 145 A. D., 391, affirmed on the opinion of Miller, J., 203 N. Y., 627.) I think, however, that the language of section 38 of the Public Service Commission law so construed in those cases differs materially from the provision of defendant's tariff in the instant case, and that the doctrine of waiver there applied is not applicable here.

"The judgment must therefore be reduced to $50, with appropriate costs in the court below, and as so modified affirmed, with costs of this appeal to appellant.—All concur."

FEDERAL TRADE COMMISSION BEGINS INQUIRY INTO PAPER SITUATION

THE Federal Trade Commission began, August 1, its investigation into the causes of the phenomenal increases of price which paper manufacturers and jobbers are asking for paper. The commission has sent invitations to over 6000 periodicals (newspapers and magazines), asking them to present any evidence or information they may have, while it was announced that special agents of the commission are now at work examining the accounts of the principal makers of print paper in the United States and Canada.

The hearings this week were attended by a number of representatives of the publishers and of the paper mills. Among the organizations represented were the Pennsylvania State Editorial Association, the American Newspaper Publishers' Association, the Pennsylvania Associated Dailies, the Associated Weeklies of Pennsylvania, the Pittsburgh Newspaper Publishers' Association, the News Print Manufacturers' Association and the International Paper Company. There were also present various representatives of the mills and periodicals who came in their private capacity. While most of the discussion the first day was on news paper, all kinds of paper are directly involved.

The most significant feature of the testimony was the explicit statement of Frank P. Glass, of the Newspaper Publishers' Association, that that association is gathering legal facts which they believe will show that an agreement exists among paper manufacturers, and that these facts will be placed before the commission within sixty days.

A GOOD CONVENTION WINDOW

Window of Charles Sessler which received first honorable mention from the Quoin Club during "advertising week" in Philadelphia. The object was to represent authors of every state in the Union, preferably native sons, and where this (in a few instances) was not possible, residents of the state were selected. A silk flag decorated one corner of the window, and a map of the United States, the other. The books were grouped about the floor of the window, and a white, flag-shaped card announcing the name of the author and the state adorned each item. From each state of the map, a streamer of city colors directed attention to the representative book from that state, and corresponding streamers came from the stars of the flag on the other side of the window. A drapery of city colors below the inscription "United we entertain and enlighten the world," gave an added touch of festivity and welcome to the advertising delegates.

That there is a general belief among paper users that there is a concerted action among paper makers and dealers to raise paper prices to artificial levels was evident from the trend of the testimony. Mr. Glass declared that for some time past the publishers have found it difficult to obtain extra tonnage of paper above their contract tonnage at anything like a reasonable price. Furthermore, he said the prices on contracts have advanced 25 per cent., and in some instances as much as 30 per cent. The contracts which most of the papers are now making run only until January 1, 1917. The mills refuse to make contracts for supplying paper after that date and, consequently, the publishers are apprehensive of the situation which is shortly to confront them. The charges now being asked for extra tonnage have advanced 50, 75 and in some instances 100 per cent. over the old prices.

Mr. Glass said that there are evidences of a concerted action on the part of the paper mills. When a publisher attempts to purchase paper or enter into a contract he receives an offer from but one mill. And no mill will offer to supply paper upon a contract after the end of the present calendar year. Since the recent advance in the price of paper, many publishers have lost their profits, and Mr. Glass said that if the tendency toward higher prices continues many periodicals will have to suspend.

J. H. Zerby, representing the Pennsylvania Associated Dailies and the National Editorial Association, told of the troubles now being encountered by the small periodical publishers throughout the country. He said he wrote to from thirty to forty mills and brokers asking them to supply him, and only three of them answered his inquiry. Of these, one refused to supply him, another took the matter under advisement, and the third said that he would sell a partial supply; but all three asked why he did not go back to the mill which had previously furnished him. He suggested that if the manufacturers are finding their expenses excessive they should begin by disposing of their very large and costly selling force. Such a large selling force is not necessary at the present time.

Mr. Zerby testified that one paper concern held in reserve more than $1,000,000 worth of goods. Other witnesses alleged that the paper manufacturers were making no real effort to relieve the situation; that they were not working to their extreme capacity or to develop new sources of supply.

Mr. P. T. Dodge, representing the paper manufacturers in general and the International Paper Company in particular, was finally led into giving some of the most elaborate testimony offered on behalf of the paper manufacturers. The witness said that the International Paper Company manufactures about one-third of the paper supply of the United States, the Canadian mills manufacture about one-third, and the remainder is manufactured by the smaller mills of the United States. He said that the International carries about $2,000,000 worth of paper stock (37,000 tons) on hand to take care of insurance, losses, etc., a supply which guarantees a constant supply of paper to the many clients of the International.

Mr. Dodge said, directly contradicting the testimony of consumers, that the demand for paper is outstripping the supply, and this demand is extraordinary at the present time. While the summer demands are light, the mills utilize the opportunity to store up a stock of paper for the increased demands beginning about October. This is the first summer, said Mr. Dodge, in a long time in which the mills have found it impossible to add to their stock. He said that the present trouble grows out of the sudden burst of prosperity and other extraordinary circumstances, and advanced the opinion that the condition will probably correct itself within the next two months or so.

He further declared that the present paper situation had been brought about largely through legislation in the United States. He made reference to the recent tariff change which placed newsprint paper on the free list, which tariff change was followed by a prohibition in Canada against the exportation of wood cut on crown lands. This has resulted in a checking of the growth of the newsprint paper industry in the United States. Within the immediate past, Mr. Dodge said, there have been established in the United States no new mills, while there have been a number of new mills built in Canada. The International now has under consideration three sites in Canada and will very likely construct a mill in Canada before long. If this condition continues, the witness declared, the paper industry will gradually leave the United States and move to Canada.

At the prices prevailing in the United States, domestic mills cannot make a reasonable profit on their investment, said Mr. Dodge. The International is now paying but 2 per cent. on its preferred stock, and that company has not the least watered stock. As a matter of fact, said the witness, the assets of the International are greatly in excess of the capitalization. He said his company is increasing the production of newsprint paper in its American mills, but is building no new mills here. Extensions will be made outside the United States, inasmuch as it is impossible to make a reasonable profit on paper mill property in this country now. As indicative of the great increase in the Canadian industry, Mr. Dodge said that the imports of this paper from Canada amount to about 1000 tons a day, whereas previously only about 75 tons a day were brought in.

Of all the wood available for paper manufacture on this continent, said the witness, only about 20 per cent. is in the United States. Canada has by far the greater supply of the raw material, and it is impossible to bring that supply to the American mills on account of the situation which has come about by reason of the tariff law which placed newsprint on the freelist.

The commission does not expect to be able to make its report before October 1.

Publishers of daily newspapers in Greater New York, at a meeting Tuesday afternoon, took action which will result in a decrease of the number of pages in their morning, evening and Sunday issues of 121 pages a week. The reduction of so many pages is a step to relieve the news paper situation, which is regarded by the newspaper publishers as very serious. Action was also taken to eliminate returns of unsold copies.

EVERYMAN'S LIBRARY CONTEST REVEALS BOOK-BUYERS IN MANY LINES OF BUSINESS

As a tonic to those who may have come to feel that the book-buying public is limited to teachers, preachers and women possessed of country estates and a craving for "the latest," we print herewith the widely varied list of occupations of the 500 persons winning single volume prizes in the Everyman's Library contest conducted by the E. P. Dutton Co. In all 7305 entered the contest, which, it will be remembered, was to pick the ten volumes in Everyman's Library best suited to start a library and the best ten additions to the Library. The list below compiled by Mr. Burkhardt, of the Dutton Company, shows no less than fifty-four different professions and businesses, not including 95 unfortunate prize-winners with "no business." Teachers come first with 109 prizes-winners; students, 80; housekeepers, 25; clerks, 25; stenographers, 14; bookkeepers, 12; lawyers, 11; commercial travelers, 8; musicians, 6; secretaries, 6; farmers, 7; physicians, 7; clergymen, 9; librarians, 8; advertising men, 2; printers, 2; contractors, 1; sales managers, 1; bankers, 2; millers, 1; collectors, 1; journalists, 3; salesmen, 5; automobile business, 1; artists, 5; druggists, 3; civil engineers, 3; plumbers, 1; insurance men, 5; nurses, 1; sailors, 2; real estate men, 1; draughtsmen, 5; cashiers, 4; telegraph operators, 3; time keepers, 1; mechanical engineers, 3; authors, 4; engineers, 1; letter carriers, 1; managers of government fisheries, 1; reporters, 1; correspondents, 2; fashion editors, 1; social workers, 1; poultrymen, 2; dressmakers, 1; auditors, 1; book-sellers, 1; army officers, 3; nurserymen, 1; ranchmen, 1; lyceum readers, 1; cabinet makers, 1.

AUTHORS' LEAGUE CRITICIZES "AVERAGE" BOOK CONTRACT

PURSUANT to its announced campaign in favor of a standardized book contract, the Authors' League has through its official Bulletin printed the following criticism of an "average printed form book contract used by many publishers." The critique is in the guise of a "letter written to one of the members of the League in response to a request on the part of the member for an analysis of the document submitted by a publisher":

First: This contract assigns to the publisher everything save translation rights; is so inclusive as to give him all save one of the rights incidental to copyright. It is always advisable for the author to keep the copyright in himself and to license or grant such of the rights included in the copyright as it is agreed the publisher should have. The publisher takes the stand that it is a very simple matter for him to take out the copyright and that he needs it for the purpose of protecting the author. Let us first analyze what his position in the matter would be. Someone dramatizes the work or someone creates therefrom a motion picture; you cannot bring an action to stop it; your publisher is not sufficiently interested therein to stop it. You cannot compel him to stop it because any damages that may be recovered therein belong to the publisher and you cannot state that the dramatization will affect your royalty. Viewed from another side, suppose that the publisher passed into bankruptcy; the result of this would be that his receiver or trustee would have a right to sell this copyright and you would have to look to the bankrupt concern for royalties, which in that event of course it could not pay and in the United States the purchaser would take the copyright free of the obligations of the publisher to pay you any money. On the other hand, if the copyright is in you, the license would terminate upon the non-payment of royalty. England, by a separate act, has taken care of this situation by allowing the purchaser to take a copyright under such circumstances only subject to the author's agreement.

Second: It is never advisable to give up all the rights in a work. Dramatic rights may have no present value. Motion-picture rights may not be presently salable, but both may become very valuable in the future; other and now unforeseen rights in and to a literary work may be hereafter created, as were motion-picture rights. Under the proposed contract all of these passed; serial rights and syndicate rights also have a value and they are frequently in excess of the translation rights, the monetary return upon which is rarely very large.

Third: It is inadvisable to give to the publisher the right to trademark the title. It is possible that an author will write a series of tales and if the title were trademarked and you then changed your publisher, the result might be that you and your new publisher would be chargeable with unfair competition and perhaps an infringement of trademark.

Fourth: It is inadvisable to give to the publisher the absolute right to change the name or title of a work. It leaves in the publisher the opportunity to change the title to his own advantage, perhaps to your detriment by fitting it with a series of other works which he may be publishing or may hereafter publish.

Fifth: Also with regard to the copyright, proposed contract contains no statement as to where copyright is to be taken out, whether only in the United States or in all countries granting copyright or copyright protection throughout the world, and it is possible that if your copyright is not protected in countries where the translation rights may have a value, these might be absolutely lost.

Sixth: The contract does not state when the work will be published. Publisher may not find it convenient to publish it for the next five years; in the meantime you would not receive any royalties, and after that time its publication might be of no value to you. It is advisable to state the time within which the publication should be made, and in this connection, if the publication is to be made within a reasonable time, it can be stated at the time of making the contract whether the book shall be published in cloth, paper, or in boards.

Seventh: It is inadvisable to take a small percentage on the paper or cheap edition or for the edition sold in boards, because in most cases you cannot find out how many of the cheap editions have been sold, the practice of the publishers being to sell the right to print and publish a fixed number for a lump price, and if you are to be paid only on the number of copies sold, you will have to follow the person who gets the right to manufacture same to see how many he disposes of. It is very rare that the same publisher gets out the cloth bound and also the paper edition.

Eighth: It is inadvisable for you to wait four months for your money after the date of each statement. The joker in this clause lies in the fact that no statement is rendered unless you apply therefor. Should you apply on the first days of January and July, the publisher begins to prepare a statement upon your application and he then has until the ends of the respective months of January and July to render the account and four months from the date thereof only does your money become due. In other words, sales up to January 1st need be paid only on June 1st. There is absolutely no need for this. If a concern is responsible, it should pay its debts when they are determined or at least thirty days thereafter, that is, payment should be made on or before March 1st and September 1st.

Ninth: It is inadvisable to accept a royalty on the price actually paid when books are sold to canvassers, especially when it says "canvassers or otherwise," because anyone may be included in the "otherwise" and especially when it is dependent upon a discount greater than that allowed to the largest buyers in the regular trade. By way of example, let us assume that a book is to retail at $1.35; this would give you thirteen and one-half cents a copy; also that the discount allowed to the largest buyers in the regular trade brings the price of the $1.35 book net down to eighty-eight cents; let us then assume that a canvasser buys the book for eighty-six cents, or let us assume that a friend of the publisher gets an inside price of eighty-six cents; on these your royalty would be eight and six-tenth cents and the contract would leave you no redress and there is nothing in the contract that allows you to examine the books of the publisher to verify the price, though the price may vary, at which books were sold so as to determine whether you have received your royalties on the proper basis.

Tenth: It is inadvisable to forego royalty upon books sold at or below cost of manufacture unless the elements of the cost of manufacture are determined. Some publishers charge a proportionate amount of their entire advertising bills to every book, regardless of whether such book received a proportionate expenditure of advertising or not. They are also in some instances apt to charge the average cost of the manufacture of a single book by taking into consideration the cost of the manufacture of all their books and in some instances very many books of a much higher proportionate cost than the individual book are considered in this calculation. It is advisable either to limit the low price or to state actual cost of the manufacture of the aforesaid book.

Eleventh: There is nothing in the contract which gives any copies free of charge to you, nor at any price less than the retail price list. The lowest number that I have seen given to authors by contract is six. The highest number of free copies to authors has been twenty-four.

Eleven-A. It is inadvisable to limit yourself to half of what may be received for the privilege given to others to publish parts or selections of the book for compensation as stated in the proposed contract, because compensation may not be limited to monetary return; the author should receive half of the value of whatever is given for this right, if any consideration be given. For instance, a periodical or newspaper might in consideration of serial rights grant to the publisher three full pages of advertising for a year. Technically this might not be considered compensation, actually the three full pages of advertising would have a commercial value, and the author should receive a proportion of their cash value.

Twelfth: It seems little short of taking something for nothing for the author to divide the return from dramatic rights, serial rights, etc. If these rights have any value, the best that the publisher should be entitled to is an agent's commission. The contention of the publisher in this respect most frequently is expressed as follows: the publisher makes an author by putting his book on the market and if it were not published, the dramatic rights might never have been discovered. The argument might have some foundation if the publisher were even to a degree a philanthropic institution and were doing the author a favor by publishing his work. Experience, however, has proven this not to be the fact. The publisher puts your book on the market because he expects to make some money thereon, and unless his judgment absolutely fails he does make some money thereon. The best that he does do, considering all the circumstances, is to introduce your book so that a producer might see its dramatic value. A dramatic agent could do the same thing. The publisher does nothing toward the sale of the dramatic rights and it seems fair that his remuneration should be limited to the compensation generally paid dramatic agents, which is rarely in excess of 10 per cent.

Thirteenth: If you are to pay for corrections it is advisable to pay only upon presentation of a bill showing that the cost exceeded $25, or whatever the arrangement may be, and the bill should contain a statement showing how the figures are arrived at. It is inadvisable to await a reassignment of the copyright until all the copies remaining on hand shall have been sold, in the event of a declination on the part of the publisher to put out a new edition if the plates, etc., are rendered valueless by fire. An insignificant fire might spoil part of the plates. The book at that time may be having a comparatively small sale. There may be on hand a few copies, the last of which may not be sold for a number of years. Advertising of the book may have ceased and with no pushing the last few copies may not be disposed of. In the meantime copyright remains dormant in the hands of the publisher, which is unfair to the author. Of course, my theory of the matter is that the copyright should remain in the author and upon a declination under these circumstances, publisher should have a right to sell copies on hand without paying any royalty and his license to publish should in this contingency, at the option of the author, cease and determine.

Clause Seventh in the proposed agreement provides for a reversion of the copyright. It is impossible for something which as such you never had to revert to you. If you had the copyright and granted a license, then the outstanding right could readily revert to you, but where the copyright is taken out in the name of the publisher there is nothing left to revert to the author. Either the copyright must be taken out in the name of the author or there must be a provision for the assignment of copyright.

Fourteenth: The infringement clause, as stated in the proposed agreement, lacks sufficient incentive for the publisher to sue for damages or injunction in the event of an infringement; for instance, an innocent infringement might net by way of damage far less than the expense entailed upon getting the decree, even considering its effect upon the sale of the work. It is fair to suppose, under such conditions, that the publisher might not bring any proceedings to protect the copyright. In this clause, it is usual to add in substance that in the event of a failure of the publisher upon ten days' written notice of the author, to take the necessary proceedings, that the author shall have the option of terminating the rights of the publisher or the option to retain counsel and bring such proceedings at the expense of the publisher.

Finally, I suggest a re-reading of the eleventh paragraph and that reference be made therein to the protection of the copyright by the publisher, if the publisher is to have it, so that the translation rights will have some value.

The game of Slam Bang price cutting is out of date. It is bad for the manufacturer and it is getting to be fatal for the store.—Hodgkin: "Manual of Successful Storekeeping."

WHY PRINTING COSTS MORE

THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY has had frequent occasion during the last year or so to comment upon rising costs in the printing field. As we have pointed out, increasing printing costs are chargeable to no single item, but to increases of from two or three to two or three hundred per cent. on practically every single item, from stitching wire to labor. This is interestingly shown in tabloid form by the following schedule of price advances recently sent out by the printers of New York City:

*Inferior covering quality. Most printing inks today are of inferior "spending" or "covering" quality—caused by the inability of ink-makers to secure proper ingredients. Consequently, from 40 per cent. to 75 per cent. more ink is now required to cover a given printed surface. Thus, an ink formerly priced at 50 cents per pound—advanced now by 20 per cent. (10 cents per pound) to 60 cents per pound—actually costs the printer, in the finished job, at least 84 cents per pound. This increase is accounted for because of the decreased covering qualities of the ink. Uncertain drying qualities cause delays in the pressroom. Sheets cannot be quickly backed-up; slip-sheeting is more necessary than ever before; forms require washing-out oftener, thus causing increased time in press-work and increased cost on the job.

NOTES FROM PARIS

(Special correspondence to the London "Bookseller" and the New York PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY.)

THE war has wrought so many changes in the streets of Paris that the disappearance of any particular shop is hardly noticed by the general public. Of the many hundreds who pass every day up or down the Rue Laffitte, probably not one in a thousand ever noticed that the Librairie Achille had ceased to exist. Now that the death of the proprietor has been announced in the papers, we suddenly remember that it is a long time since we saw his refined and intellectual head above the few books in the shop window.

Achille was a bookseller of the best type. He had read, or, at least, had dipped into every book he sold, and he knew the address of every literary man in Paris. He was originally in charge of a bookshop in the Boulevards—a branch of the well-known firm of Levy, now Culmann-Levy—and his quiet urbanity and extensive literary knowledge soon brought round him many customers, amongst whom were such celebrities as Alexandre Dumas filis, Emile Augier, Labiche, "Uncle" Sarcey, Aurelien Scholl, and others of less renown.

Some of these famous authors persuaded Achille to set up for himself, and he took a shop in the Rue Laffitte, but a few yards from the Boulevards, whither his old clients followed him. Later generations of authors did not regard him with quite so much respect and veneration, but many of his old customers remained, and the business, if not lucrative, sufficed for his needs. The only incident which disturbed the placidity of his life was a burglary, some years ago. The thieves carried off some books, which were not worth as much as they thought, and the contents of the till, and also, much to Achille's annoyance, the old slippers in which he used to shuffle about the shop. He is reported to have said that the burglars were welcome to the money and books if they would only bring back his old shoes.

When the war broke out, Achille's business declined to such an extent that he gave up the shop, and retired to his private apartment, which was situated in a cross street nearby, and where a few of his remaining customers and friends—with him the terms were synonymous—used still to come to talk over bookish matters.

Another death which occurred recently was that of M. Emile Faguet, of the French Academy. In his early days he was a school-master, and ultimately became Professor of French Literature at the University of Paris. His health failed several years ago, and being confined to his room, he poured forth books on various subjects—mainly criticism and metaphysics. His works include critical studies on the literature and drama of the last four centuries; several books on Rousseau, and an account of the love affairs of celebrated authors. He also put forth a dozen volumes concerning politics, philosophy, and sociology, and, in addition to book work, wrote many articles for reviews and journals. He has been greatly praised for the lucidity of his style, but many of his books are very far from being easy reading. He was in his 68th year at the time of his death.

In the late Victorian days, young ladies of the Miss Podsnap order were forbidden to read the works of Ouida. That writer was then considered too "rapid," but would now be deemed rapid by the modern young person of fifteen, who can assimilate stronger fare. I do not imagine that there is still a very active demand for "Moths"—which parents and guardians would by no means suffer their charges to read—or "Under Two Flags." In the last-named book, the hero is a very remarkable young man, who, at his first shot with a borrowed rifle, brings down an eagle that is a mere speck in the sky! In these days we should send him to the front, and put him in charge of an anti-aircraft gun.

Perhaps the best thing she ever wrote was the short and pathetic little story, "Two Little Wooden Shoes." Two Italian composers, Puccini and Mascagni, seem to have been simultaneously struck with the idea that the book would furnish a libretto for what is called a "comic" opera, though it is often very far from being at all comic. The publishing firms who back these rival composers therefore wrote to the English publisher to know what price he asked for the copyright, but he replied that Miss de la Ramé died intestate at Viareggio, in Italy, and the right of disposing of her property was in the hands of the Town Clerk of that town. That official proposed that the MS. should be put up to auction and knocked down to the higher bidder. The firm of Ricordi began by offering 2000 francs; whereupon the rival firm of Sonzogno offered three times as much, and, as Ricordi "passed," the copyright has been secured for Mascagni, Sonzogno's "nomination." Let us hope that he may be well-inspired when he begins to work at the subject.

Not many books issue from the Paris presses at present, and, as a matter of course, nine-tenths of them relate to the war, directly or indirectly. There would seem to be a kind of fashion in war books—the particular streak that is most popular at present is the psychological study of the German character and methods. Many French authors—and for that matter many English ones, too—argue that we ought to have known from the way the Hun behaved in time of peace how he would conduct himself in time of war. Post-facto prophecies by the "I-told-you-so" class of seer are not of much use except to act as warnings for the future, but if the German bagman is found overrunning all Europe a very few months after the war has ended, it will not be the fault of our literary advisers.

One of the best written and most scathing attacks on German "Kultur" is "L'Allemagne devant l'Humanité," by Péladan (Fonlemaing). When I first knew him, twenty-five years ago, he called himself Sar Péladan, but whether that was a name or a title I cannot say. He was then the founder of a society of Rosicrucians, and had collected round himself a band of young æsthetes, who were going to reform the world by means of bad pictures and worse poetry. Paris, like Athens in the days of St. Paul, is ever seeking after some new thing, and the "mage"—as he called himself—had some measure of success; perhaps owing to the fact that he was a handsome, young man, with a very serious and refined air. But the Rosicrucians made no lasting impression on the world, which continued to go its own way, and the Rosicrucians also went their own way—to the limbo of forgotten fantasies. Sar Péladan then gave me the impression of a young man who would do some good work when once he had freed himself from youthful follies and from the trammels of the skirts of female adorers, and I have therefore watched his career with some interest.

COMMUNICATIONS

OBSVIOUSLY NOTHING TO SAY

Editor, PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY:

San Francisco, Cal.

I have sold more copies of one book on Mexico than I have of all the books you list in your myopic survey of Mexican books. I need not name the book, as it has been notoriously the best selling book on Mexico issued in the past six years. That it is not published by one of the Big Publishers may be the cause of your ignoring it. I noted a similar omission in your list of war books last year. A book that has sold over 100,000 copies was not mentioned. Of course I'm on; but the average ring-nose dealer isn't. (It's getting harder to play ostrich in S. F. than in N. Y.)

HOW TO SELL MORE BOOKS

Milwaukee, Wis.

Editor the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY:

The first thing to do to increase the sale of books is to make their sale more profitable and to encourage capital to invest in the book business. Present conditions repel capital because the discounts do not permit sufficient margin to cover the selling expense and leave any profit: therefore the important thing to do is to grant larger discounts. With a maintained retail price and a minimum discount of forty per cent. there would be more and better books sold and more bookstores where one could buy them.

There would be more books sold if publishers would agree to send—according to the outlet which a bookstore has—new publications on an exchange basis. These might be sent for a limited period of thirty days, charges both ways to be paid by retailer, unsold copies in first class condition to be exchanged for other books of the same value. This exchange privilege could be cancelled by publisher in case of dealers who did not maintain fixed price, which, in itself, would discourage price cutting and give the dealer a sure profit, as he would be protected against unsalable stock. The publisher would not get much stock returned as a dealer would have to be careful in ordering more than he could sell, since he would have to order in exchange stock of equal value to amount returned. This plan would give publishers a publicity almost equal to the periodical business, and their losses would be comparatively slight as, on a thirty day exchange basis, the stock would be in good enough condition to send out as new, with new wrappers.

A permanent display of the new books on tables in the public libraries with cards stating that they could be obtained at the bookstores—this display to be changed as the new books take the place of those published in the preceding month—would make the public library one of the best publicity mediums for advertising new books. I believe the libraries would be glad to take care of this display. The books withdrawn from display could be sold to the trade at reasonable reductions from trade notes, on account of their being more or less handled. Such a display when sent to public libraries having a regular juvenile department could be divided into two separate displays. By acquiring the habit and love of reading when young, book readers are being developed into book buyers when they grow up.

POSTAL MATTERS

SWEEPING CENSORSHIP LAW PROPOSED

A SWEEPING censorship bill, in the guise of periodical mail regulation, has been introduced in the House of Representatives (H. R. 491). It reads:

A BILL

To amend the Postal Laws.

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That whenever a complaint in writing shall be filed with the Postmaster-General that any publication making use of or being sent through the mails contains any article therein which tends to expose any race, creed, or religion to either hatred, contempt, ridicule, or obloquy, he shall forthwith cause an investigation to be made under his direction and shall within twenty days after receipt of such complaint, if the facts contained therein are true, make an order forbidding the further use of the mails to any such publication, but nothing herein contained shall be deemed to prevent the Postmaster-General from restoring such use of the mails to any such publication whenever it shall be established to his satisfaction that the publication has ceased to print or publish such prohibited matter and given him satisfactory assurance in writing that there will be no further repetition of the same.

BILL PROPOSES THAT REPLY LETTERS AND POSTALS BE CARRIED WITHOUT PREPAYMENT OF POSTAGE.

WE have just received the full text of the following bill (H. R. 14947) introduced into the House of Representatives on April 22, 1916, by Mr. Lloyd, of Missouri. It was referred to the Committee on the Post Office and Post Roads and ordered to be printed and so far as we have been able to learn nothing further has been done regarding it:

"That all letters and postal cards sent in response to requests for replies shall be carried in the mails and delivered to the persons addressed without prepayment of postage, as hereinafter provided. That any person desiring to avail himself of the privilege of receiving such letters and postal cards shall deposit with the Postmaster General of the United States, or such postmasters as he may designate, a sum of money, to be fixed by the Postmaster General, sufficient to equal the amount of first-class postage required on said letters and postal cards to be carried. Upon receipt of such deposit the Postmaster General or the postmaster shall issue to the person making the deposit a numbered permit authorizing the purchase from the Post Office Department of such number of unstamped envelopes and postal cards as may be required, at a price to be fixed by the Postmaster General. Each of such envelopes and cards shall have printed on its face the address to which it is to be returned, the number of the permit, and the words 'Prepaid postage not required. Void if address is changed.' In addition to the deposit of money the purchaser shall furnish a bond in form and substance as prescribed by the Postmaster General conditioned for the payment, upon notice from the postmaster at the office of delivery, of the usual rate of postage on all such letters and cards as shall be carried in the mails, within such time and under such regulations as the Postmaster General may prescribe. In the event of default in payment of any such postage the amount thereof shall be deducted from the deposit, and the letters and cards covered by such postage be delivered to the addressee in the usual manner. The permit herein authorized may be renewed from time to time so long as the original deposit shall remain or be kept intact, and any such deposit may be returned and any such bond canceled when no longer required, under such conditions as the Postmaster General may prescribe."

CUSTOMS DECISIONS

BOUND VOLUMES OF NEWSPAPERS NOT ENTITLED TO FREE ENTRY

A CASE of interest to importers of books, newspapers and periodicals came before the U. S. General Appraisers in New York City on June 30 when an importer appealed from a fifteen per cent. duty on a number of bound volumes of the London Times. It was claimed that said articles were properly entitled to free entry under the following provision in paragraph 556 of the act of 1913:

Newspapers and periodicals; but the term "periodicals" as herein used shall be understood to embrace only unbound or paper-covered publications issued within six months of the time of entry, devoted to current literature of the day, or containing current literature as a predominant feature, and issued regularly at stated periods, as weekly, monthly, or quarterly, and bearing the date of issue.

Following the decision of Judge Somerville in G. A. 376 in 1883 that "the uniform ruling of the Treasury Department for years past, based on the opinion of the United States Attorney General, has been to hold publications of this kind, bound in stiff covers in book form, to be dutiable as 'books,' on the ground that they have lost their character as periodicals and become books within the meaning of that word in the tariff law," the appraiser held in the present case that "newspaper sheets having been bound into books are certainly no longer newspapers. They are more; they are books of newspapers; they have lost their original identity as newspapers and have become for all purposes books."

Counsel for the importers argued that a reading of paragraph 556, quoted above, will plainly show that Congress expressly refrained from limiting the scope of the provision for newspapers, and that any qualifying language contained in said paragraph was intended to be confined solely to periodicals. The appraiser held, however, that the qualifying language used by Congress in connection with the term "periodicals" is indicative of the fact that it was the legislative purpose to adopt the judicial interpretation of the word "book" as enunciated in the board's ruling in G. A. 376, supra. This it virtually did in limiting the term "periodicals" to publications of the unbound or paper-covered class. It is a well-recognized fact that periodicals are invariably stitched together with thread or with wire, and that they are therefore in a sense a species of book. Congress, however, evidently intended to remove all possible question and hence restricted the term periodicals to include only such as have not been bound into book form. Concerning the term "newspapers," any such restriction or limitation was deemed wholly unnecessary, inasmuch as newspaper sheets are always loose and a congressional definition thereof would consequently be entirely superfluous.

The volumes were held to be correctly assessed under paragraph 329 at 15 per cent. ad valorem. (T. D. 36543—9-A.7933.)

BOOKS CONTAINING ELEMENTARY MUSICAL EXERCISES AND IMPORTANT INSTRUCTIONS IN FOREIGN LANGUAGE ENTITLED TO FREE ENTRY.

THE U. S. General Appraisers in New York City reversed the decision of a collector of customs on June 26, deciding that books which contain in addition to the notes of the music a considerable amount of text printed in a language other than English, the printed text constituting a very significant and important feature of the work, are properly classifiable as "books * * * printed wholly or chiefly in languages other than English," and as such free of duty under paragraph 426 of the act of 1913, as claimed by the importers, rather than dutiable at the rate of 15 per cent. ad valorem under paragraph 329 of said act as "music in books or sheets," as classified by the collector. "It may well be," said the appraiser in ruling on the appeal, "and all examination of the books actually discloses it to be the fact, that in so far as the printing is concerned the music notes greatly predominate over the printed words of instruction. But inasmuch as it is also perfectly evident that the books are designed solely and primarily as books of instruction in the use of the instruments named, we are satisfied that such instructions are of the utmost importance to the students for whom the books are intended. Clearly the books are intended for beginners on said instruments, and without the words of instruction would be utterly useless for the purpose for which they were printed."

The books were granted free entry. (T. D. 36539—G. A. 7929.)

THE Bobbs-Merrill Company brought a suit in equity against the Equitable Motion Pictures Corporation and another for a preliminary injunction restraining the production of a motion picture photo-play which they claimed was an infringement of their novel, "Fran." Judge Mayer, of the U. S. District Court for the Southern District of New York, in his opinion (232 F. R. 791) summarizes at some length the plots of "Fran" and the photo-play, "A Circus Romance," and quotes at some length from the affidavit of Bettie T. Fitzgerald of Gadsden, Ala., the author of the latter, in which affidavit the author outlines in some detail the local sources of her plot.

Judge Mayer concludes: "There may be several questions in the case, but at the threshold is the issue of originality.

"While, in the case at bar, there are some marked similarities, the question of infringement is by no means clear, in view of the common sources; i. e., the theme of the deserted wife, etc., 'Polly of the Circus,' and the incidents at Gadsden (typical of a small town), in respect of which there is no reason to doubt the truth of Miss Fitzgerald's statements. In other words, whatever may be the ultimate result, the case is not one justifying a preliminary injunction. Especially is this view confirmed when there is nothing to show irreparable injury pendente lite. Plaintiff's play is not being produced, and the picture surely will not hurt the sale of the novel for the present.

"Motion denied."

ENGLISH CASE INVOLVES REPRODUCTION OF CARTOONS AS LIVING PICTURES.

A UNIQUE English copyright action, Bradbury, Agnew & Co., Ltd. v. Day, involved the use by a music-hall agent of certain copyrighted cartoons in Punch as a basis for an exhibition of living pictures or tableaux vivants. The management of the London Hippodrome, according to the English Author, had been exhibiting these cartoons with the permission of the plaintiffs in the form of tableaux as part of a revue called "Business as Usual," at the Hippodrome, and had entered into an arrangement with the defendant, Day, under which Day was to produce the entire revue in the provinces, and had leased to Day the properties required to produce the tableaux as exhibited at the London Hippodrome.

As soon as the plaintiffs discovered that the tableaux were being produced in the provinces they protested to the management of the London Hippodrome, with the result that instructions were given to discontinue the exhibition in the provinces. Day thereupon directed that the tableaux should be altered, but as they were highly successful and he did not want to go to the expense of getting new properties, he desired the tableaux to be altered as little as possible. The question to be decided by the Court was whether the alterations made had or had not avoided infringement. It was admitted that prior to the alterations an infringement had been committed.

According to the Court, the copyright law protects the particular form in which the idea is embodied, whatever be the medium in which it is expressed. It is this embodiment which is the subject of copyright; for, though the idea be not original, to copy the embodiment of the idea, or any substantial part of such embodiment is to infringe copyright; and though an idea, even if it be original, may be adopted, yet if the embodiment or a substantial part of the embodiment of the idea be not copied there will be no infringement of copyright. The question of fact to be decided was whether these tableaux or any of them were reproductions in material form of the whole or a substantial part of the original cartoons."

A typical cartoon was one originally published in Punch in 1890, called "Dropping the Pilot," by Sir John Tenniel, and reproduced in Punch in October, 1914. It depicted the young Kaiser wearing the Imperial crown, his head and shoulders appearing over the bulwarks of the ship of state (a portion only of which was visible), gazing down at Bismarck in the garb of a pilot, descending by the companion ladder into a boat. The tableau, as altered, depicted the entire ship of state in the background apparently on the rocks. In the foreground is the Kaiser wearing the Imperial crown, his head and shoulders appearing above a rock as though he were struggling to land from the sea. Bismarck, in pilot's clothes, is standing on the rock regarding the Kaiser below him with apparent indifference. The tableau was entitled "Shipwreck." The judge held that the scene represented by the tableau was the sequel to that depicted by the cartoon. The bare fact of the combination of the Kaiser and a ship and Bismarck in the character of a pilot, however, could not be the subject of copyright. In the two representations the two chief figures were in different attitudes, playing different parts, and in each the idea and the embodiment were different. The judge said that he had no doubt that, but for the Punch cartoons, the tableaux would never have been produced. The one suggested the other. He held, however, in this as well as the other cartoons, that there was no infringement.

CIRCUIT COURT OF APPEALS REVERSES DECISION OF LOWER COURT IN CASE INVOLVING ALLEGED VIOLATION OF AUTHOR'S CONTRACT

IF AN AUTHOR makes a five-year contract bestowing the "sole and exclusive publishing rights of all compositions" by him upon a given publisher; if, contrary to this contract, he bestows the publishing rights of a given composition upon another publisher; can publisher number one be stopped by publisher number two, under claim of copyright infringement, from publishing and marketing the composition in question? The District Court, S. D., New York, decided that no injunction should issue against publisher number one since publisher number two did not "come blameless into a court of equity." (See 222 Federal Reporter 581; also PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY, July 10, 1915.) The case was appealed to the Circuit Court of Appeals, Second Circuit, and on December 14, 1915, after a hearing before Judges La-combe, Ward and Rogers, the last named handed down a decision reversing the order junction pendente lite. (220 F. R., 42.) Plaintiffs in the case were T. B. Harms & Francis, Day & Hunter; defendant Stern, et al.

This second decision turned on another decision, an earlier decision rendered in the Supreme Court of New York in an action which the defendants in the present case brought against Romberg, the author involved in the present case, for an alleged breach of the same contract. Plaintiff asked for an injunction to restrain the defendants "from producing, performing, or publishing any composition written by Romberg and delivered to the Shubert Theatrical Company and Jacob J. Shubert." It also sought, according to the affidavit presented to the court below, the specific performance of the contract of August 11, 1913. The counsel for the defendants in that action moved to dismiss the complaint, and the motion was granted on November 10, 1914; the court made the following conclusion:

"The defendants' motion to dismiss the complaint upon the ground that the contract is inequitable and that it lacks mutuality of obligations and remedy must be granted, and the complaint must be dismissed, with costs.

"Let judgment be entered accordingly."

"So long as judgment remains unreversed," said Judge Rogers in the present case, "it estops the defendants from claiming that they possess any equitable rights under the contract."

According to the contract in question:

"The said Sigmund Romberg did duly sell, assign, transfer, and set over, and vest in the defendants, the sole and exclusive right to print, publish, and sell all compositions which he might write during the period of five years from the date of the said agreement, and wherein and whereby the said Sigmund Romberg did further set over unto the defendants herein the copyright and the right to recopyright all the compositions which the said Sigmund Romberg might write during the period of the said agreement in order that the defendants might thereby protect the publishing rights vested in them by the said agreement, and that by virtue of the aforesaid agreements the defendants duly became the sole owners and proprietors of the exclusive right to print, publish, and sell each and every work composed by the said Sigmund Romberg during the period of the aforesaid agreement and of the copyright in and to each and every of such work and of the right to copyright and recopyright the same."

Commenting upon this contract and his ruling upon it, Judge Rogers said: "It would seem that an agreement made by an author assigning his interest in any future musical composition he might compose, if supported by a valuable consideration and limited in time, is as much entitled to be specifically enforced as agreements made by a patentee who assigns all future improvements on a patented device. Mississippi Glass Co. vs. Franzen, 143 Fed. 510, 74 C. C. A. 135, 6 Ann. Cas. 707 (1906). And see Birkery Mfg. Co. vs. Jones, 71 Conn. 113, 40 Atl. 917 (1898). Such an agreement, it may be conceded, might be invalid if an author undertook for a present consideration to give an exclusive right in all writings which he might at any time in the future produce. Such an agreement might be contrary to public policy and void, just as an agreement by an inventor transferring to another a right in all inventions he might at any time thereafter make might be void. Aspinwall Mfg. Co. vs. Gill (C. C.) 32 Fed. 697 (1887). But in this case the composer Romberg was to be paid royalties on his compositions as they were produced and sold, so that the incentive to produce was not taken away, and the contract was not unlimited in time. We do not, however, decide any of these questions now, and it is not important to the defendants how this court might have decided them if the defendants were not estopped from presenting them by the New York judgment."

WHERE THE RUB CAME.

Little Willie had been caught reading in bed. And a paper-back thriller, too.

"Now, Willie," said his ma, "what do you think I ought to do to you?"

"I s'pose you'll have to larrup me," confessed Willie miserably, one eye, however, on the retreating figure of the nurse as she made off with the offending story. "I wouldn't care—only—only you and nurse will both get to read that story, and you'll never tell me how it ended!"—The Arranbee News.

OBITUARY NOTES

JOHN HENRY COOK, president of G. W. Dillingham & Company, 432 E. 24th Street, N. Y., died at his residence, 320 St. Nicholas Avenue, N. Y., of Bright's disease, on July 22nd, and was buried from St. Mary's Church, Manhattan. In the passing of Mr. Cook an interesting figure in the book publishing business world and a genial soul has gone to his rest. Mr. Cook was born in London, England, in 1840, and came to this country with his parents when a mere child. They settled near Quincy, Ill., on a farm. Like so many more of his kind, the aspiring nature of young Cook rebelled at work on a farm, and with a band of young men, energetic and enterprising, they crossed the plains, making their way to Pike's Peak. Cook was captured by the Indians, but making his escape, made his way to Omaha, Neb. There he learned the trade of carriage maker. In 1862 he joined the 119th Ill. Infantry and served to the close of the war. For conspicuous bravery at Battle of Pleasant Hill, La., April 9, 1864, he received a medal of honor from Congress. After the war, he opened a newsstand and book store in St. Louis, Mo. He sold out in 1873 and came to New York City. From 1873 to 1879 he was traveling salesman for D. Appleton & Co., Routledge & Sons, and Benziger Brothers. Sometime during 1880 Mr. Cook joined the firm of Geo. Dillingham, and with the death of Mr. G. W. Dillingham in 1896, the firm was incorporated with the name of G. W. Dillingham & Co. with J. H. Cook as president. This position he actively retained until November, 1915, when the illness of which he died first showed itself and drove him to the milder climate of Florida, the home of his son-in-law, Archdeacon Wyllie. He attempted to return to New York in the spring, but grew steadily worse and died July 22d.

SIR WILLIAM RAMSAY, for many years England's leading chemist, died in England on July 23 in his sixty-fifth year. Perhaps his most notable work was done in the transmutation of metals. In 1907, he announced that he had succeeded in producing a copper compound from sodium, lithium, and potassium by the use of radium, a discovery without parallel in the field of chemistry. He has since continued his experiments with gold and other substances, but the results of these experiments have not as yet been given to the world. Sir William visited this country about a year ago. During his visit here he gave a number of lectures, those given in Boston under the auspices of the Lowell Institute attracting much attention. Before returning to England he spoke publicly on the great waste in this country, where many millions of dollars of byproducts were thrown away, all of which might be used to add to the wealth of the nation. Sir William received many honors, perhaps the greatest being that of the Nobel Prize in Chemistry. He was the author of the following published books and papers: "Essays Biographical and Chemical," 1909; "Experimental Proofs of Chemical Theory for Beginners"; "Gases of the Atmosphere: history of their discovery"; "Introduction to the Study of Physical Chemistry," 1904; "Kinetic Theory of Gases and Some of Its Consequences," 1899; "Modern Chemistry," 1901; "Present Problems of Inorganic Chemistry," 1905; "Recently Discovered Gases and Their Relation to the Periodic Law," 1899;

"Some Suggestions Regarding Solutions," 1893; "Elements and Electrons," 1912; (with J. W. Rayleigh) "Argon, a New Constituent of the Atmosphere," 1896.

PERIODICAL NOTES

American Business and Standard Advertising has suspended.

The Web is a new 3c. weekly, published at 444 Pearl St., New York City.

The Eugenical News is a new monthly published at Cold Springs Harbor, L. I., N. Y.

THE NAVY LEAGUE has discontinued its magazine, Seven Seas, and is now publishing Sea Power.

Saucy Stories is a new 15 cent fiction periodical published by E. F. Warner, Printing Crafts Bldg., New York City. The August number is volume 1, number 1.

The Thriller, "250 pages of unusual short stories," Short Stories Publishing Co., Salem, Mass., appearing about May 10, 1916, is, we understand, four issues, wired together, of The Black Cat.

The School Journal reappeared in May in combination with The Teachers' Magazine, as a fortnightly, under the editorship of William Estabrook Chancellor. It is published by Sturgis & Walton Company.

The Lamb, "The Wall Street Punch," made its appearance in May. It is an illustrated small quarto, published fortnightly at 10 cents by A. Newton Plummer, 44 Broad St., New York City.

AMONG THE new periodicals are the Journal of Bacteriology and Journal of Cancer Research, the former a bi-monthly, the latter a quarterly, and both published at 2419 Greenmount Avenue, Baltimore, at $5.

THE National Review is a new patriotic, illustrated monthly, edited by Clarence Smedley Thompson, founder of the American Defense Society, and chairman of the first Peace and Preparation Congress held in 1915. The Review is described as "America's only review devoted exclusively to the national affairs of this country," and its object is to afford American citizens an opportunity of reading a non-partisan, patriotic summary of national affairs under regular departments, including The Events of the Month; The Administration, Congress, National Reform, Foreign Affairs, Colonial America, The Army and the Navy; Patriotic and Historical; National Preparedness; Universal Service; Magazine Articles of the Month; New Books; Plays and Picture Plays, and Our National Humor. Publication office is at 303 Fifth Avenue, New York City, and the magazine sells for fifteen cents a copy, $1.50 a year.

NOTES FROM ABROAD

OWING TO THE labor dispute in Norway, all pulp and paper mills have been closed.

ACCORDING TO Georg Brandes, none of the Scandinavian periodicals have had to suspend publication on account of the war.

AN EXTENSIVE EXHIBITION of book-plates was held during March and April in the Wolfsberg Art Salon at Zurich. It was the first Swiss undertaking of the sort.

KING GEORGE V. of England has conferred baronetcy on two English publishers, Algonon Marshall Stedman Methuen, founder and head of Methuen & Co., and C. Arthur Pearson, chairman, of C. Arthur Pearson, Ltd.

THE CERCLE-BIBLIOTHEQUE FRANCO-BELGE, 14, Rue Latafue, Pau, Basses Pyrénées, France, has been established in the interests of Belgian refugee booksellers, of whom there are a considerable number at Pau.

THE INTEREST in Germany in the Turkish language has caused the German Book Trades Association to arrange for courses in the study of Turkish—one for master printers and the other for employees.

THE DUTCH MASTER BOOKBINDERS' ASSOCIATION, at a meeting held last month, decided that the prices of all binding work, other than in leather, must be raised by from 20 to 25 per cent., and of leather binding by 30 to 35 per cent.

SINCE JANUARY 1255 newspapers and other periodicals published in Germany have gone out of business, according to the German Post Office list quoted by the Brunswick Landeszeitung of April 12. The total number of periodicals discontinued since the war began is 3000, according to the report referred to in a recent issue of Commerce Reports of Washington.

IN THE SEARCH for copper for military purposes a notable find was made in the Dietrich Reimer publishing house at Berlin. Twelve copper plates illustrating Goethe's "Faust," which had long been thought to be lost or destroyed, were brought to light. They were engraved by F. Ruschenweyh, after drawings by Cornelius, and the prints from them had become rare and much sought for.

UNDER THE Trading with the Enemy Amendment Act, 1916, the British Board of Trade has required the winding up, among a number of others, of the following concerns: Bronzefarbenwerke Aktiengesellschaft, aluminum and bronze powder manufacturers; Ernest Nister, publisher and color printer; the Eastern Paper Company, fancy-paper manufacturers; Franz Hanfstaengl, fine-art publisher; Paul Suss, Christmas-card publisher.

THE GERMAN COMMISSION having in hand the work of distributing reading-matter among the soldiers on the field and in the hospitals, and which has already distributed over five and one-half million books and from two to three times as many periodicals and brochures, made arrangements for a general book collection in the week of May 28 to June 3. Such a collection a year ago resulted in the bringing in of about a million donations of books and periodicals.

ACCORDING to the British and Colonial Printer and Stationer, there is now a well organized movement in Great Britain to secure the immediate adoption in that country of the decimal system of coinage and weights and measures. The handicap in securing new foreign trade, with nine-tenths of the world on the decimal basis, is the prime argument in the propaganda, and it is pointed out that in the even keener trade competition after the war this added handicap may prove ruinous.

THE PUBLISHERS' ASSOCIATION OF THE NETHERLANDS decided at its last meeting to organize an annual fair for the book-trade similar to the Leipzig fair. Because there is at present less competition with foreign countries than in normal times, the Dutch publisher is looking ahead to a period of prosperity. The increase of cost of production and materials has caused difficulties for a number of firms however. To overcome these difficulties by co-operation is the aim of the fair.

TWO OR THREE YEARS ago, M. Terquem began to issue a magazine entitled Qui? Pourquoi? Comment? ("Who? Why? How?"), which was a sort of "encyclopædia for children." The publication was suspended during the early months of the war, and the death of M. Terquem on the field of honor prevented the revival of a serial which had "caught on," and gave every promise of being a great success. The famous house of Larousse has now bought the copyright of Qui? Pourquoi? Comment? and will henceforth publish it in monthly parts.

A MOVEMENT IS NOW POPULAR in German business circles to suppress all unnecessary terms in business correspondence, such as the introductory phrase "Sir," "Sirs," "Gentlemen," and the concluding phrases, "Yours truly," "With the assurance of," etc. To that end certain firms attach slips to their correspondence requesting the recipient to reciprocate in this matter. The elimination of salutations and closing phrases has also been adopted by some firms in the United States, and has been the intra-departmental method of the Department of Commerce for a year.

JAPAN'S BOOK IMPORTATIONS have suffered some derangement from the all-pervading effects of the war, according to The Dial. The Japan Times reports that whereas formerly one-quarter of these importations came from Germany, forty per cent. from England, twenty-three per cent. from America, and the remainder from France and other countries, now the German importations have entirely ceased, with a corresponding increase in English, French, and Russian imported literature. The languages and literatures of France and Russia are being studied more than before the Tokyo School of Foreign Languages showing this tendency in a marked degree.

A WRITER in the English Advertiser's Weekly regards the paper famine in England as artificial, and, so far as present stocks are concerned, merely a wicked anticipation of conditions that might be expected after three or four war-years. "Some opinions state," he says, "there is a two years' supply of paper-making material in this country, taking into consideration the restriction, and that the papermakers are exploiting the newspapers and the advertisers—on the principle of making hay while the sun shines. If the war ends this summer, I prophecy paper will be so cheap that all the hay made by these patriotic paper-savers will rot before it can be garnered."

THE EXPECTATION IN Russia that the paper crisis would soon pass has not been realized. The mills, which could supply all demands if worked to their capacity, are not working full time. Their possible production is 12,000,000 poods of paper and cardboard per year, and their total requirements in raw material, excluding coal, amount to 21,000,000 poods. Manufacturers are clamoring for coal and some have left off its use and turned to wood. The paper factory connected with the Japanese Government printing works will undertake the production of rag paper to the extent of 275,000 kilogrammes on Russian account.

AN ORDER IN COUNCIL recently issued provides that: "No person shall by word of mouth or in writing or in any newspaper, periodical, book, circular, or other printed publication, spread false reports or make false statements; or spread reports or make statements likely to cause disaffection to his Majesty or to interfere with the success of his forces or of the forces of any of his Allies; or spread reports or make statements likely to prejudice the recruiting, training, discipline, or administration of any of his Majesty's forces." This is censorship with a vengeance and was no doubt the cause of the recent suppression of Mary Roberts Rinehart's latest book in England.

UNDER THE FRENCH LAW of May 11, 1916, the following are some of the articles de luxe which are forbidden entry into France:

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES

T. EVERETT HARRE's "Behold the Woman!" is to have photoplay production on a huge scale by the Vitagraph Company.

A PARTICULARLY TIMELY book comes from the press of Funk & Wagnalls Company entitled "Hay Fever: Its Prevention and Cure," by William C. Hollopeter, M.D.

EDITORIAL WORK on the second edition of the New International Encyclopaedia is practically completed. Vols. XIX, and XX are now ready and the remaining four volumes are expected early in the fall.

G. P. PUTNAM'S SONS will issue about the middle of August a popular edition of Saint-Beuve's two volume "Portraits of the Seventeenth Century," first published about a dozen years ago.

THE FINAL SESSION of the Allied Printing Trades Council of New York State, at Binghamton on July 21, adopted resolutions against a State printing office and a resolution urging uniformity of school text-books.

THE RAND SCHOOL in New York City will have ready shortly the first issue of the "American Labor Handbook, 1916," a work smaller but similar in design to the great year-book of labor statistics published annually in England.

THE "TENNYSON DICTIONARY," by Arthur E. Baker, is announced for this month by E. P. Dutton & Co. Its object is to identify and describe the multitudinous characters, place-names, etc., both fictitious and historical, created or utilized by the poet.

SMALL, MAYNARD & COMPANY state that they have received no less than 1869 suggestions from booksellers for a title for the new novel by Arthur Hodges which they are publishing in September. Evidently booksellers are interested in titles—and they ought to be able to suggest some good ones!

THE THOMAS Y. CROWELL Co. has in preparation a number of books for little children: "Stories About Bears" by Lillian Gask; "Daddy Gander Rhymes" by Maude M. Hankins; "The Graymouse Family" by Nellie M. Leonard, and "The Rose Child" by Johanna Spyri.

JOHN R. ROGERS, consulting engineer of the Mergenthaler Linotype Company, has designed a typewriter which produces copy resembling the printed form, in the various sizes of type to be used and the spaces to be occupied. The device is being developed by the Hammond Typewriter Company.

THE FILM PICTURE of the Country Life Press at Garden City, and which has been shown in New York at the Lord & Taylor Bookshop, has recently been enlarged and perfected and will be exhibited all over the country on the Pathé Educational circuit, and loaned to libraries, churches and such educational institutions as may care for it.

HOUGHTON MIFFLIN COMPANY announce that owing to the fact that the price of leather is mounting so rapidly they are forced to make an increase of twenty-five cents per volume on the half-calf bindings listed in their catalogue, and that all their fine bindings are now subject to increase without further notice.

THE Page Company's "headliner" for August is a sequel to "Anne of the Blossom Shop," "Anne's Wedding." This new book by Isla

May Mullins continues the story of the delightful Southern family already well known to thousands of readers. The Page Company also announces a new three volume edition of Rambaud's "Russia," a history of Russia from the earliest times to 1882.

MACMILLAN & Co. have just published a new edition of "Tom Brown's Schooldays," which, according to the English Bookseller, makes the eighty-sixth time that this famous story of schoolboy life has been reprinted by the publishers, excluding, of course, the many non-copyright editions which have been issued by other houses.

JOHN A. HILL, the technical publisher, who died Jan. 24, 1916, left a personal estate valued at $1,134,933. The personalty taxable in this estate consists of 350 shares of preferred stock in the Hill Publishing Company and 9593 shares of the common stock worth $993,894. Under the terms of Mr. Hill's will 15 employees each received $1500, while 48 others each received $1000.

ANOTHER SERIES of translations of foreign classics, "The Slavic Translations," is to be published in the United States by Mitchell Kennerley. It will be under the general editorship of Leo Wiener, Professor of Slavic Languages and Literatures in Harvard University. The first volume, to be issued at the end of June, is "Magdalen," by J. S. Machar, Bohemia's greatest living writer.

THREE HUNDRED AND TWELVE cartoons by Raemaekers—whose work has excited so much comment the world over—are being collected and published serially by Land and Water, London, with explanatory notes by G. K. Chesterton, Eden Phillpotts, Hilaire Belloc, the Dean of St. Paul's, and others. The cartoons are in color and will appear fortnightly in twenty-six parts. The price in England is 1s. net per part.

A BIOGRAPHY of James J. Hill is being prepared by J. G. Pyle and will be published within a year. Mr. Pyle, former editor of the St. Paul Globe, was for years closely associated with Mr. Hill and received several years ago the latter's permission to prepare his biography. He was given full access to all business correspondence and documents under the stipulation that no biography should be published during Mr. Hill's lifetime.

THE CENTURY Co. will publish within the next few weeks a work entitled "The Private Secretary: His Duties and Opportunities," by Edward Jones Kilduff, of the School of Commerce, Accounts and Finance, New York University. It is said to be a complete, detailed exposition of the work of the private secretary, with a general discussion of the opportunities open to the highly-trained secretary, and a complete course of instruction for those who wish to develop their capacity in this field.

A FEATURE of the Doubleday, Page publicity for Ray Stannard Baker's "David Grayson" stories has been the formation of Graysonian clubs all over the country. In fact, The Graysonians have a special letterhead of their own which describes their organization as "A fellowship of all who love David Grayson's books and welcome new adventures on the friendly road." The letterhead also bears a little round Graysony view of a man walking down a shady, friendly road in search of adventures in contentment.

A NEW idea in book exploitation has just been announced by the new Britton Publishing Company and the Coyle & Gilmore Company of New York, manufacturers of stationery. The idea is a "Book and Stationery Gift Box," combining in one dainty box a copy of the Britton Company's new Annie Fellows Johnson book "Georgina of the Rainbows" with one and a half quires of fine stationery in assorted tints. The combination sells for $2.50 net, and the Britton Company emphasize that only regular booksellers will be sold. Patent has been applied for on the box, which the Coyle & Gilmore Company are displaying in their Fifth Avenue salerooms.

THE H. W. WILSON Co. have just published an index to 1600 of the most important books about business, compiled under the direction of John Cotton Dana, Librarian of the Newark, N. J., Free Public Library, and Chairman of the Library Committee of the Associated Advertising Clubs of the World. Although prepared primarily as a catalog of the books in the business branch of the Newark Library, this book will be useful to all business men and women as an author, title and subject index to the best literature on business at the present time. It will contain about 160 pages, bound in a substantial paper cover, price 75 cents.

ONLY BOOKS PRINTED by union printers and bound by union bookbinders will be purchased for use in the public schools of Trenton, N. J., in the future. This has been decided by the board of education and is the result of a resolution framed by Typographical Union No. 71. The resolution provides that the board of education in the future must make all purchases of schoolbooks from publishers whose names appear in the fair list issued by the International Typographical Union. It also provides that the board can make purchases from publishers on the unfair list in order to complete sets of books now in hand, but that all new sets of books must be purchased from houses employing only union help. The American Book Co. and the Rand McNally Co. protested this action, and accordingly a hearing before a committee of the board of education was arranged, and President B. A. Wilson of the typographical union was asked to be present at the conference to present the union side of the case. So far as we are able to learn the hearing caused no alteration in the Trenton resolution.

BUSINESS NOTES

CONCORD, N. H.—The stationery, bookselling and printing business of E. C. Eastman, 120 North Main Street, has been taken over by a new corporation and will be conducted in the same location under the name of the Edson C. Eastman Company. The president of the new company is Charles J. Phelps, formerly manager of the Eastman store. He was in the stationery business in Boston for a great many years. Edward H. Holton, who has been with the United Fruit Company for a number of years in a responsible position, is secretary and treasurer of the new stationery concern. The Eastman store is one of the oldest in New England and has a nation wide clientele. The concern, which was established in 1857, does a large business in town and state supplies and publishes a great many of the State law books, State reports, etc.

LAFAYETTE, IND.—The City Book and Stationery Company (Wm. C. Parr) has opened its new store at 406 Main Street.

OWENSBORO, KY.—The Parrish Book Store has filed a voluntary petition in bankruptcy.

BIBLIOGRAPHICAL NOTES

FRANCIS E. MURRAY is preparing in England a bibliography of Frederick Locker.

THE TORCH PRESS announces as forthcoming a "Bibliography of the Works of Thomas Hardy, 1865-1915," compiled by A. P. Webb and printed in England by Constable uniform with the Wessex Novels Edition of Thomas Hardy's Works.

CHARLES L. BOWMAN, President of the Union Library Association, has compiled a useful and up-to-date list of the "1250 Best Books for Boys and Girls." Mr. Bowman says he had difficulty in keeping his list within bounds, even though he applied two severe tests to the books included. He admitted only those that children like to read, and only those that were wholesome in tone—full of cut-lashes and hair-breadth escapes if you like, but not subtly applauding lying and trickery. Supplementary to the main list, lists of "Picture Books and Best Books for Little Children" and "Books in Series" are given. The titles are fully annotated and the prices were revised by the publishers, so should be accurate for a twelvemonth at least. The pamphlet sells for twenty-five cents.

PICK-UPS.

IN THE HOUSE OF SYSTEM

The visitor was being shown about by the head of the up-to-date business house.

"Who is that dapper youth at the glass-topped desk?" he asked.

"That is the superintendent of the card index system. He keeps an index showing where the index cases are."

"Who is the young man with the gray gaiters and the efficient ears?"

"He keeps an index showing the length of time it takes to index the indexes."

"Who is the girl with the golden hair?"

"She decides under what index an index to the index of the filing cabinets shall be placed."

"And who is the gray-haired man at the disordered desk in the corner?"

"Oh, that's Old Jiggs. He doesn't fit in very well with the rest of the office, but I have to keep him around. He's the only employe who can find important papers when I want them in a hurry."

- Stagg, Clinton H. Silver sandals; il. by Will Foster. N. Y., Watt. c. 11+305 p. D $1.25
A dead man walks into Gotham's most extravagant restaurant and sits down to wine. The old, old woman who walked with him wore silver sandals. The mystery only deepens as the facts come out: the man had been murdered, he had arranged for his own murder, he left a will in a cryptogram. Arrests were many, and the confessions useless. It was the most baffling case Thornley Colton, the blind problemist, had ever handled. He worked on a trail plain to him who has no eyes, but finger-tips to touch.

Advertising Rates.

One page	$25 00
Half page	14 00
Quarter page	7 00
Eighth page	4 00
One-sixteenth page	2 00

The above rates are for unspecified positions. Special rates for preferred positions (full pages only).

Higher rates are charged for the Summer Reading, Educational Number and Christmas Bookshelf, and for the monthly Book Review supplement sections.

Advertising copy should reach us Tuesday noon—earlier if proof is desired out-of-town. Forms close Thursday night.

Under the headings of "BOOKS WANTED" and "BOOKS FOR SALE" book-trade subscribers are given under their own names five nonpareil lines (exclusive of address) free advertising for specified books, not more than one title to the line, in any issue except special numbers, but not exceeding one hundred lines a year, a maximum of fifty lines under "Books Wanted" and fifty lines under "Books for Sale," and if over five lines are sent for either department in any one issue, or fifty lines for each department within the calendar year, the excess is at ten cents a line. Bills for this service will be rendered monthly. Objectionable books are excluded so far as they are noted.

In answering, please state edition, condition and price, including postage or express charges. Houses that will deal exclusively on a cash-on-delivery basis should put [Cash] after their firm name. The appearance of advertisements in this column, or elsewhere in the WEEKLY does not furnish a guarantee of credit. While it endeavors to safeguard its columns by withholding the privileges of advertising should occasion arise, booksellers should take usual precautions in extending credit.

"Books Wanted" must be designated by actual title, not by "any."

Write your wants plainly, on one side of the sheet only. Illegible "wants" are ignored. The WEEKLY is not responsible for errors. Parties with whom there is no account must pay in advance.

Under "HELP WANTED" or for other small undisplayed advertisements, the charge is 10 cents a nonpareil line. No reduction for repeated matter. Count seven words to the line.

AN UNSOLICITED TESTIMONIAL

The writer has not had an opportunity earlier to write and express our appreciation of the prompt and efficient way in which you have carried forward the printing of the Typo Credit Book. In spite of the fact that the book was re-set from cover to cover and you were given the least possible time in which to do it, you completed your work on time and had the final sheets in the hands of the binder, so that we were able to make our deliveries on July 1st as we planned.

We want also to say that the printing and presswork is of the highest order, and so far not a single high-line has come to the writer's attention.

The Typo Credit Book for July, 1916, is by far the handsomest book that we have ever issued and is a credit to us, as well as to you who are responsible for the printing.

Thanking you for your successful efforts in our behalf, we are,

Yours very truly,

THE TYPO MERCANTILE AGENCY,

W. T. G. Weymouth, President.

A Chance to Make Yourself "Solid"

DEAR MR. BOOKSELLER:

The Solid Book that Makes You "Solid"

Here is a tip! Nearly every bookseller has one or more "very special" customers—those who buy heaps of books in the course of the year. In some cases the "special" is a librarian, in others a school principal; frequently it is a private buyer whose thirst for books seems never to be quenched, so to speak.

To make yourself "solid" with these good people why not send them a copy of this year's TRADE LIST ANNUAL with your compliments? It would certainly provide them with material enough in the way of book catalogues! It would, best of all, be a graceful recognition of their trade and would be graciously accepted in the same spirit.

A dozen or more of the wise ones in the business every year order extra copies for this purpose.

And as each copy costs but $2.00, how could you possibly flatter a good customer so handsomely at less expense?

Think this suggestion over and be sure to send your order in before August 31st.

Yours for service,

The Publishers' Weekly
J. B.

Reference List of New Publications

Recorded in JULY, 1916

This Reference List enters the books recorded during the month under (1) author, in Clarendon type, anonymous books having Clarendon type for the first word; (2) title in Roman; (3) subject-heading in SMALL CAPS; (4) name of series in Italics.

A colon after initial designates the most usual given name, as: A: Augustus; B: Benjamin; C: Charles; D: David; E: Edward; F: Frederick; G: George; H: Henry; I: Isaac; J: John; L: Louis; N: Nicholas; P: Peter; R: Richard; S: Samuel; T: Thomas; W: William.

For books received sizes are given in CAPS, Q, O, D, etc., books not received sizes are given in Roman numerals, 4°, 8°, 12°, etc. Prices are added except when not supplied by publisher or obtainable only on specific request. Where not specified the binding is cloth.

Those desiring to learn the entire publishing output of the month in any one field should look under one of the following

MAIN HEADINGS:

PHILOSOPHY	MEDICINE	LITERATURE
RELIGION AND THEOLOGY	AGRICULTURE	POETRY
SOCIOLOGY	HOUSEHOLD ECONOMICS	DRAMA
LAW	BUSINESS	FICTION
EDUCATION	ENGINEERING, TECHNOLOGY	BIOGRAPHY
PHILOLOGY	FINE ARTS	GEOGRAPHY AND TRAVEL
SCIENCE	GAMES, SPORTS, AMUSEMENTS	HISTORY

Besides the titles listed under each of these headings cross reference is made from each to a limited number of cognate headings which collectively give all the new publications of the month in the given subject or group of subjects.

Inquirers looking for books on a specific topic should look under the general subject to which that topic belongs, i.e. GEOLOGY rather than SILURIAN PERIOD; MATHEMATICS rather than CALCULUS; ECONOMICS rather than WAGES. Books regarding specific Religious denominations, countries and persons, however, should still be sought for under their individual names.

CONTINUING SUCCESSES

DOROTHY CANFIELD'S New Book

By the Author of "The Bent Twig," "Hillsboro People," etc.

The REAL MOTIVE

"Marked by character and originality. There is humor. The stories are told well; they go straight to the point; they keep the reader thoroughly interested. The cumulative effect of the collection is much stronger than that of any single story."—The N. Y. Sun.

DOROTHY CANFIELD'S FINE NOVEL THE BENT TWIG

The sales of this novel in July exceeded those of any month since its publication last October. 9th large printing. $1.35 net.

THE SPINSTER

By SARAH N. CLEGHORN

2nd printing. $1.35 net.

A novel about a nineteenth-century girl who finds her place in the twentieth.

"Delicate, finished, typical of New England. Poignantly like life."—Chicago Herald.

FULFILLMENT A California Novel By EMMA WOLF

By the Author of "Other Things Being Equal," etc.

4th printing. $1.35 net.

A picturesque California love story. The heroine is rich in everything but money and self-restraint.

"Has love's eternal freshness and potency of interest."—N. Y. Tribune.

JEAN-CHRISTOPHE

Translated by
GILBERT CANNAN

3 vols. Each complete in itself, and each $1.50 net.

"In 'Jean-Christophe,'" says the Boston Transcript, "Roman-Rolland raised a monument to literature, and the reward of the world's esteem was bestowed upon him with a unanimity which has probably had no parallel."

The sales of these volumes so far this year is in excess of the sales for the corresponding period of last three years. It is a new classic.
